Dr. Robertson, chairman of the Alabama USDA Rural Development Council, added that incomes would be increased and levels of living raised with improved rural housing, better markets and training of the underemployed and unemployed.

He said community facilities would be improved by installing better sewage and water systems. He also said that environmental health problems would be in rural and urban areas.

Home Administration John Garrett stated his agency would assist communities in rural housing and water and sewage system construction in Alabama.

State Conservationist W. B. Lingle for the Soil Conservation Service promised technical assistance in soil and water problems, and in conducting soil surveys and interpretation of data that has been developed as a service responsibility to land users in rural and urban areas.

BETTER COUNTY GOVERNMENT

THE MAIN ISSUES ARE: 1. Unit system for building road and bridges. All work will be done from a central location in the County. Will save a minimum of $100,000,00 annually. 2. Call a referendum and let the people decide whether we shall have one or two court houses.

3. Set up the construction of roads and bridges on a priority basis. Serve the most people first. Maintainall roads and bridges so they can be used all the time.

4. Close the Communication Gap. Let the people know where their money is being spent and where it will be spent. Set up a County wide planning committee.

5. Stop littering the county with refuse and set up solid waste disposal sites throughout the county. 6. Forget about two divisions in the County and work for the good of the County as a whole. ALL OF THE ABOVE CAN BE DONE WITH AGGRESSIVE LEADER-SHIP, LETS GET OUT OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY BEFORE THE TWENTY FIRST GETS HERE.

Gov. Wallace built one new university. 17 new junior colleges. And 15 new trade schools. Gave free textbooks. And more. He will do it again.

George Wallace did a lot more for education in Alabama than be the first man to see the danger in federal interference in our public schools. He also laid it on the line when it came to new schools and higher teacher salaries. For example. Alabama became the first state to double money for education during one four year period. He gave the kids free text books. And now, in some cases, they're not beng provided. The new Wallace administration will see that they are. It's the law.

And another thing, George Wallace increased teacher salaries by as much as forty percent. He's ready to work for more. Now. All in all, the record is hard to beat.

But don't stop there. George Wallace is still fighting for an untroubled education. The difference is that he's not alone anymore. He's winning. And the folks who were against him then, are with him now. Including senators, congressmen, southern governors, and a few cabinet have always been back of Wallace. Because he's always worked for a better education for Ala That's why he's our kind of man.

self, after scanning the day's newspaper headlines, "This nation is going to pot!"? If you were talking about drugs, you were closer to the truth than you probably realized.
"Pot" is popular jargon for marihuana, and Amerians by the millions are smoking it. Some health authorities believe that 4 to 5 million of them may have used marihuana at least once in their lives, while others estimates run as high as 20 million. Arrests on marihuana charges have more than doubled since 1960.

The most tragic aspect of this growing problem is the extent of usuage by young people. Surveys made under National Institute of Mental Health grants indicate that approximately 2 million high school and college students have had experience with marihuana. As in the case of hard narcotics, marihuana is no longer simply a drug used in big city ghettos. "Grass" has become pop-ular among the well-fed, well-clothed and generally suburbia. The marihuana

an uncontrolled brush fire into small towns and socalled bedroom communities throughout the entire Since much has yet to be learned about the effects of this drug, supporters of legalization of marihuana are inclined to treat its hazards lightly. Yet, available information indicates that these permissive elements in our society are playing a dangerous game, and those who listen to assertions that marihuana is somehow medically safe will be the real losers. certainly reduce the arrest but unquestionably a more refined and consequently more dangerous product than is usually obtainable would be marketed to meet customer demands. While admitting that marihuna does not produce addiction of the morphine type and abstinence does not produce a physiological withdrawal syndrome in the user, the Bureau of Narcotis reports that its use does result in psychological dependence. Separation from the narcotic may result in anxiety, depression, or actual suicidal attempts.

The link between marihuana usage and crime has not been fully determined but present studies do show some connection. A recent report of the Sub-Committee on Narcotic Addiction of the New York Medical Society pointed out that marihuana in its stronger forms such as hashish is definitely associated with criminality, violence and
